Dear Dr. Wheelan:

The University of South Carolina is submitting the attached prospectus for approval of a new program at the current degree level that is a significant departure from current programs (see Appendix E). The purpose of this prospectus is to seek a substantive change to the MS in Physical Education to become the MS in Adapted Physical Education at the University of South Carolina. The MS in Adapted Physical Education will be offered beginning Fall 2019. This substantive change will provide a degree focus that meets the continuing professional education needs of certified teachers who work with, or aim to work with, children and adolescents with disabilities in physical education settings. This will be a 100% online program offered by the Department of Physical Education in the College of Education at the University of South Carolina Columbia. The MS in Adapted Physical Education will be an ongoing degree granting program. In addition, it will be the only program of its kind nationally that is delivered 100% online.

The University of South Carolina Columbia has prepared a prospectus to request approval to offer the MS in Adapted Physical Education. Should you have questions or require further information, please do not hesitate to contact me.

Sincerely,

Donald Miles, Director of Institutional Effectiveness and Accreditation and SACSCOC Accreditation Liaison

1. ABSTRACT

The purpose of this prospectus is to seek a substantive change to the MS in Physical Education to become the MS in Adapted Physical Education at the University of South Carolina. The MS in Adapted Physical Education will be offered beginning Fall 2019. This substantive change will provide a degree focus that meets the continuing professional education needs of certified teachers who work with, or aim to work with, children and adolescents with disabilities in physical education settings. This will be a 100% online program offered by the Department of Physical Education in the College of Education at the University of South Carolina Columbia. The MS in Adapted Physical Education will be an ongoing degree granting program. In addition, it will be the only program of its kind nationally that is delivered 100% online. It is also the only program of its type in the State of South Carolina and one of only 10 programs nationally. Once the program is fully enrolled, we project a total enrollment of 40-50 students with approximate 20 new students starting each year. The Department of Physical Education is ranked 4th in the Global Ranking of Sport Science Schools and Departments. The faculty member coordinating the program is a Certified Adapted Physical Educator and currently serves on the Adapted Physical Education National Standards (APENS) Executive Board.

2. DETERMINATION OF NEED FOR THE CHANGE/RELATIONSHIP TO MISSION/PLANNING AND APPROVALS

This program meets the flagship mission of the University of South Carolina in that it will serve the state and region with a unique academic offering. This degree will enable teachers in SC, as well as teachers in other states, to better serve diverse youth. The outcomes of this program align with the University's mission to educate the state's citizens through teaching, research, and community engagement. In addition, coursework will present opportunities for teachers to use research-driven, evidence-based practices; problem-based learning leading to creative solutions; and community engagement in relation to students with disabilities in physical education/recreation settings. This program also aligns with the College of Education's 2016 strategic plan in relation to (1) the use of cutting-edge technology to improve instruction and deliver programs and (2) fostering a respect for diversity and inclusion in the academic functions and programming of the college.

The Individuals with Disabilities Education Act (IDEA) is legislation that ensures students with a disability are provided with Free Appropriate Public Education. This legislation provides children with disabilities the same opportunity for education through the use of Individualized Education Plans (IEP). Under this legislation physical education teachers are considered direct service providers and, therefore, part of the Individualized Educational Plan (IEP) team. As part of the IEP team the physical educators are required to design program and individual goals and objectives for every child with a documented disability. Research shows physical educators (1) often feel unprepared to contribute effectively to the IEP process, (2) struggle to accommodate students with disabilities in inclusive settings and (3) often cite minimal academic preparation as a cause of their lack of readiness to teach students with disabilities (Block & Obrusnikove, 2016; Lee, Burgeson, Fulton & Spain, 2007;). In addition, a recent survey of practicing physical education teachers revealed that 83% of respondents (n=74) has a bachelor's degree while only 12% has certification in adapted physical education (Lirgg, Gorman, Merrie, Shewmake, 2017).

Within the state of South Carolina, there is a 92% shortage for Adapted Physical Educators given the demand for providing services for students with disabilities (Jiang, 2012). A survey of local teachers (N = 60) revealed that 50% of respondents would choose to enroll in further coursework in Adapted Physical Education or similar certificate programs. This survey was sent out via email through the district office in school districts surrounding Columbia in Fall of 2016. The College of Education Assistant Dean for Professional Partnerships assisted in connecting the department with personnel in the local districts who could send the survey out to physical education teachers. Approximately 100 physical educators received the survey and 60 surveys were returned.

In 2016, the Bureau of Labor statistics reported 41,000 adapted physical educators nationally. The Labor Bureau projects faster than average growth in this profession from 2016-2026 with a 10%-14% growth and 3,400 job openings (see <https://www.onetonline.org/link/summary/25-2059.01#WagesEmployment>). Per the Labor Bureau and Career One-Stop no employment data for employment for adapted physical educators in South Carolina has been reported (see <https://www.careeronestop.org/toolkit/careers/occupations/Occupation-profile.aspx?keyword=Adapted%20Physical%20Education%20Specialists&onetcode=25205901&location=SC>)

This program was reviewed and approved by the following faculty committees:

1. College of Education Curriculum Committee: February 22, 2018
2. Graduate Council: April 23, 2018

Additional institutional approvals:

1. Physical Education Department Chair, Dr. Collin Webster: February 6, 2018
2. College of Education Dean Pedersen: April 20, 2018
3. Board of Trustees Approval: June 27, 2018

3. REQUIRED INFORMATION FOR THE SPECIFIC SUBSTANTIVE CHANGE (NEW PROGRAM)

New Courses (Not yet taught but fully approved through University course creation process)

PEDU 715 - Introduction to Adapted Physical Education, Activity, and Sport: Focuses on content knowledge foundational to adapted physical education, activity, and sport programs in self-contained and/or itinerant settings for children with moderate to severe disabilities.

PEDU 716 - Universal Design for Learning in General Physical Education: Focuses on knowledge and skills to design and implement an effective curriculum design, lesson planning and assessment for inclusive physical education settings.

PEDU 717 - Practicum in Adapted Physical Education: Focuses on the techniques, methodologies, and philosophies of adapted physical education teachers.

PEDU 720 - Theories and Principles of Motor Learning and Control: Applications for Adapted Physical Education: Focuses on the knowledge of principles/theories of learning and memory applied to motor skill acquisition with an emphasis on factors influencing and the development of successful instructional and training strategies among individuals with disabilities.

PEDU 771 - Theories and Principles of Growth and Motor Behavior: Applications to Adapted Physical Education: Focuses on knowledge of growth and motor development principles from theory and research with applications for teaching and coaching individuals with disabilities.

PEDU 788 - Action Research Project in Adapted Physical Education: Focuses on knowledge and skills to design and implement an action research project designed for self-reflective systematic inquiry and improvement of teaching in inclusive physical education settings.

Existing Courses:

PEDU 650 - The Art and Science of Coaching: Coaching principles and application to sport programs across a variety of developmental levels.

PEDU 710 - Measurement and Research in Physical Education: The treatment of current theory and practice of testing, evaluation, and research in physical education, with emphasis on the methods and tools of research.

PEDU 730 - Psychological Aspects of Athletic Performance and Injury Rehabilitation: The application of psychological principles from motivation, arousal regulation, individual differences and psychological skills for enhancing athletic performance and injury rehabilitation

EDEX 710 - Legal Issues in Special Education (or other course approved by advisor): Analysis of legislation, litigation, and administrative rulings related to special education. Emphasis on the development of legally sound policies and procedures to ensure an appropriate education for students with disabilities.

Curriculum Overview

Full-time students can complete the MS in Adapted Physical Education in one year. In addition, students can create “On Your Time” programs of study in which they can graduate in two years or slower if they need that accommodation. Students may begin the program in either summer or fall.

* PEDU 715 and 716 are offered in the fall and summer semesters, for optional times to enroll based upon summer or fall entry.

Evaluation and Assessment

Program objectives will be evaluated through key assessments tied to coursework (see table below). Assessment data will be gathered from a range from practical and observation assignments, course exams/assignments and a culminating action research project. Assessment data will be reviewed yearly by faculty to make improvements and changes to coursework to assure higher levels of student learning. The MS in Adapted Physical Education will be reviewed on a rotating 7-year cycle by the Quality Assurance Committee in the College of Education (Q-Com). The department will track employment through an online reporting system for students. The University of South Carolina also has program assessment in place. The university program assessment process is a two year schedule within which colleges are to report their assessment findings and their use of assessment results to improve programs.

The MS in Adapted Physical Education is not an initial teacher certification program. It is not accredited by The Council for the Accreditation of Educator Preparation (CAEP). The program does not require students to sit for a Certified Adapted Physical Educator (CAPE) certification, but the coursework will provide students with the knowledge and skills necessary to be successful on the Certified Adapted Physical Educator (CAPE) exam. Upon completion of the program, candidates will need to document the balance of the required 200 hours working with students with disabilities in physical education (Students will accrue 80-100 hours during PEDU 717- Practicum in Adapted Physical Education). The requirements for the CAPE exam can be found at <http://apens.org/certification.html>.

Admission and Graduation Requirements

There are three options for admission to the MS in Adapted Physical Education:

Option 1- Undergraduate GPA 2.75 or above, documentation of valid teaching credential, three letters of recommendation, letter of intent, official transcript with posted undergraduate degree

Option 2- GRE scores (minimum 146 verbal and 140 quantitative), Undergraduate GPA 2.75 or above, three letters of recommendation, letter of intent, official transcript with posted undergraduate degree

Consistent with the Graduate School at the University of South Carolina, at the time of graduation, the student's cumulative grade point average must be at least 3.00. Additionally, the student's average on all grades recorded on the Program of Study must be 3.00 and the student's GPA for courses numbered 700 or above, recorded on the Program of Study, must be at least 3.00. Graduate degree-seeking students whose cumulative grade point average drops below 3.00 (B) will be placed on academic probation and allowed one calendar year in which to raise the grade point average to at least 3.00. In the case of conversion of grades of incomplete that causes a cumulative GPA to drop below 3.0, a degree-seeking student will be placed on academic probation at the end of the semester in which the grade is posted. Students whose cumulative GPA falls below the required minimum of 3.0 by receiving a grade for a course in which they received an Incomplete will, instead of a one-year probationary period, be granted only one major semester of probation dating from the semester in which the grade is received by the registrar in which to raise their cumulative GPA to 3.0 or above. Students who do not reach a cumulative 3.00 grade point average during the probationary period will not be permitted to enroll for further graduate course work as a degree or non-degree student. Graduation from the program requires a minimum GA of 3.0 and successful completion of either (1) a written comprehensive exam or (2) a data-based action research project.

Administrative Oversight

Administrative oversight of the program occurs at multiple levels. All academic actions (i.e., recommendations for admission and approval of master's programs of study) must originate with the faculty program coordinator and then approved by the College of Education Graduate Director. The Dean of the Graduate School provides final review and approval on all academic admission and progression actions. The Program Coordinator oversees student advisement and is the first point of contact person for student concerns and questions. Any student issue not resolved with the program coordinator will be referred to the Department chair, then the College of Education Graduate Director and ultimately the Graduate School. The College of Education Student Affairs Committee reviews petitions and grievances that cannot be resolved at the program/department level.

4. FACULTY QUALIFICATIONS (See Appendix C)

5. LIBRARY AND LEARNING RESOURCES

Library resources are available on line through the University of South Carolina library resources. Students go to the university library website at <http://library.sc.edu/p/Libraries>, and log in using their university systems information. Instructions on accessing the library are included on Blackboard class websites (particularly courses early in the program). The Library can help instructors serve distance students by putting course readings into Blackboard, and the e-Reserves service can provide links to library databases, including streaming video as well as journal articles. They can also scan articles from the Library's print collection into Blackboard. Further, the Library has a chat function that allows students and instructors to chat with a librarian in real time as needed. Off campus students can easily access relevant data bases and have articles delivered electronically. Interlibrary loan service is available. The library will mail books to a home address outside of Richland and Lexington County in South Carolina. The list of primary learning resources available to students is provided (See Appendix D).

6. STUDENT SUPPORT SERVICES

Students admitted will be required to attend a live program orientation via video conference delivered by the program coordinator prior to being advised for the first time. Students will be assigned an advisor from the department who will handle the completion of the program of study and ongoing advising each semester. Advising will take place via phone, email or video conference and will be based on student preference. After advising, students will need to sign and return a signed advisement form to their advisor. An administrative assistant in the department will clear students to enroll in classes. Graduation checks will be handled by the Office of Student Services in the College of Education and must be approved by the College of Education Graduate Director and the Dean of the Graduate School.

Within the College of Education students have access to graduate student support staff who can provide information regarding processes and deadlines. They can also assist students' in locating university level resources when needed. The graduate student support staff are available via phone, email, or video conferencing for students who cannot come to campus.

Academic Integrity

The Academic Integrity office promotes academic integrity, upholds the Honor Code, and supports the ideals set forth in the Carolinian Creed to foster a better living and learning environment in the University Community. Academic ethical behavior is essential for an institution dedicated to the promotion of knowledge and learning. The University of South Carolina is committed to fostering a university environment which exemplifies the values embodied in the Carolinian Creed. All members of the University Community have a responsibility to uphold and maintain the highest standards of integrity in study, research, instruction, and evaluation; as well as adhering to the Honor Code. An online tutorial is available to help students understand why academic integrity is important to our community and to navigate their obligations.

Academic Success Initiatives

Academic Success programs include course-specific support, assistance with study skills, and early intervention referrals.. Course specific support includes supplemental instruction and tutoring, which provide high quality, peer guided, assistance to enhance learning and academic success. Supplemental instruction focuses on introductory courses that are critical to students' academic progression and is delivered by trained peer leaders in a group setting. Tutoring provides support for a wide range of courses and is delivered by trained peer leaders in 1:1, group, and online settings. Assistance with study skills is provided by success consultants who engage with individual students in one-on-one appointments to set goals, explore study and time management strategies, develop action plans, and make referrals to appropriate university resources. The early intervention referral program, Success Connect, facilitates outreach to at-risk students based on faculty referrals or student self-identification. Success consultants meet individually with referred students and assist them in accessing appropriate resources and support.

Campus Recreation

The mission of Campus Recreation is to provide the entire university with community, individual, economic and environmental benefits for the purpose of developing and reinforcing healthy lifestyles. Campus Recreation maintains over 400,000 square feet of indoor space in two facilities (the Solomon Blatt Physical Education Center and the Strom Thurmond Wellness and Fitness Center), eight multipurpose playing fields, three tennis courts and four sand volleyball courts. Facility amenities include: weight rooms, cardio-vascular training areas, basketball / volleyball courts, racquet sport courts, swimming pools, climbing wall, multipurpose rooms, and locker rooms. Programs offered include: intramural sports, sport clubs, group exercise classes, aquatics, adventure trips and clinics, and informal recreation.

Career Center

The Career Center provides comprehensive career related services and programs that are available to all students. Services include individual and small group career counseling, resume critiques, mock interviews, online job and internship postings with on-campus interview scheduling, and resources to research employers and identify contacts for networking. The Career Center coordinates experiential education opportunities such as job shadowing, internships, and cooperative education. Potential employers are brought to the community via multiple job fairs each year, and workshops on topics ranging from career fair preparation to graduate school are provided. Career planning and related services are critical to student identity and purpose as well as life goal development.

Carolina Productions

Carolina Productions is a student-operated organization that provides entertaining, educational, traditional and diverse programs to students, faculty, staff and community members. These programs encompass the ideas, issues, and interests of the University of South Carolina community, as well as the Carolinian Creed and University mission. Carolina Productions also provides accessible opportunities for the social, cultural, intellectual, and leadership development of University of South Carolina students.

Community Service Programs

Community Service Programs promotes volunteer service as an integral part of the educational values of the University of South Carolina. Programs emphasize a deep commitment to learning through reflection. Community service and service-learning allow students to interact directly with challenging environments while using skills and knowledge gained in the classroom. Through the integration of community service across the curriculum and co-curriculum, students become prepared for a lifetime of community leadership and responsible citizenry. Over 80 non-profit agencies in the Columbia area partner with the office to provide these experiences.

Counseling and Psychiatric Services

Counseling and Psychiatric Services provides psychological counseling, psychiatry, education, and consultation, to the University community, as well as clinical supervision for selected mental health graduates. Our multi-disciplinary team offers services that promote social, emotional, physical, and cognitive well-being for people facing developmental or unplanned challenges.

Diversity Education

The Office of Multicultural Student Affairs offers Diversity Education Initiatives for all students that include, but are not limited to, an annual Civil Rights Tour, Social Justice and Diversity Education presentations presented by trained student peer educators, the Diversity Dialogue Series, cultural and heritage month celebrations, and an annual Diversity Retreat and Diversity Week. The intention of these programs is to reach a large majority of students on campus by reaching out through multiple venues to emphasize the need for multicultural competence. Students are challenged to take a deeper look at their own cultural background, identify personal prejudices, and to adopt a larger and more inclusive worldview.

Financial Aid and Scholarships

The Office of Financial Aid and Scholarships supports the instructional and service missions of the University by removing financial barriers so that qualified students, both undergraduate and graduate, may attend the University. Financial aid staff provides assistance, education, and support for students and families in securing the funding they need to attend the University. They administer scholarships and financial aid programs in accordance with the mission of the University, and state and federal law. They also provide online tools to assist students with reviewing their aggregate borrowing history and estimating loan repayment (housed within Self-Service Carolina) as well as information for managing educational debt.

Healthy Carolina

The mission and purpose of the Healthy Carolina program is to create a campus environment that encourages and promotes the development and maintenance of a healthy body, mind, and spirit through the collaborative development, promotion and assessment of a wide-ranging array of wellness programs and services for all students, faculty and staff at the University. Healthy Carolina will guide the planning and implementation of programs, interventions and policies that support a healthy campus environment to live, learn, work, and play. Healthy behaviors and habits directly support and promote optimal learning and development.

Registrar

The Office of the Registrar supports students by providing the following services: maintenance of the master schedule of classes and classroom assignments; maintenance of the online registration system; collection of and recording of official grades; coordination of the commencement exercises; and transcript issuance and stewardship of student records. These services are critical for facilitating an effective learning environment and providing official records of student progress and achievement. The Office of the Registrar also is also the functional owner of Self-Service Carolina, the portal for the University's student information system, Banner; DegreeWorks, a degree audit tool; and College Scheduler, a course planning and scheduling tool.

Religious and Spiritual Development

A variety of opportunities for religious worship, study, and recreational and social activities are available to students. Ordained chaplains, other University-recognized religious workers, and student leaders from many denominations, faiths, and registered religious organizations serve students on campus and in religious centers located near campus. Registered religious workers are available as pastors, mentors, and counselors and for sacramental and ceremonial occasions.

Russell House University Union

The Russell House University Union is an indispensable campus resource where students, faculty, and staff meet, eat, and gather as part of their daily activities. The Russell House University Union promotes student learning and development by providing services and resources pertinent to the daily needs of the student body and through sponsorship of programs and activities designed to educate and entertain members of the university community. Open 7-days a week, the Russell House contains a variety of student-centered organizations and activities: the Leadership and Service Center; restaurants and eateries; the Barnes and Noble-managed University Bookstore; student postal services; meeting spaces and offices; and the Department of Student Life.

Student Government

Student Government consists of both policymaking and programming constituents. From academic affairs to student services, the Student Government is committed to submitting policies that represent the voice of the students to the University administration, local government and state government. Members of the Student Government also work to improve campus life through a variety of programming initiatives that protect student interests, and support student groups.

Student Organizations

Students on Carolina's campus have created over 300 groups with mutual interests in academic, social, or active pursuits. Full-time faculty or administrative staff members serve as advisors to each group. Participation in student organizations helps foster leadership skills, team building, networking, and overall development.

Substance Abuse Prevention and Education

The Substance Abuse Prevention and Education Office serves to educate students so that they can make informed decisions regarding substance-related behaviors and other student-wellness issues. Through collaboration with other service areas and departments on campus, SAPE provides programs, services, and resources that encourage Carolina students to recognize their decisions impact not only themselves, but also the greater University and City of Columbia communities. The SAPE Office advises a Peer Education Team and administers programs such as AlcoholEdu and Students Taking Initiative and Responsibility (STIR). SAPE also provides Carolina students with a Gamecock tailgate party before each home football game; and is called upon to provide presentations and information to various entities on campus to support responsible decision-making in the student development process.

7. PHYSICAL RESOURCES

This program is 100% online. Current physical facilities will be adequate for supporting the program and adequate office space is available for new faculty/graduate assistants.

Note: New costs - costs incurred solely as a result of implementing this program. Total costs - new costs; program's share of costs of existing resources used to support the program; and any other costs redirected to the program.

Budget Justification

This program can be taught with faculty overloads in year 1 and 2. The cost of faculty overloads vs. hiring new faculty in the initial years of the program is cost effective. This will allow us to more fully see enrollment numbers. Faculty have agreed to teach overloads and this is supported by Dean Pederson. GA support will be added in years 3-5 and a new faculty member will be added in year 3 (pending enrollment numbers). Beyond faculty, the costs of this 100% online program is small. The potential for a strong return on investment is likely. Faculty and staff salaries will increase by $54,069 in the first and second year due to the cost of overload pay. Assuming growth in the program, in years 3-5 faculty cost will increase to $182,000 (the cost of 2 new tenure-track faculty lines plus fringe). A part-time administrator will also increase program cost in year's 3-5 by $13,000. A GA will be hired in years 3-5 to assist with the program adding $20,000 in yearly cost (included in Other). Finally, the College pays an 8.5% support service fee to the University on Tuition/Fee revenue (included in Other).

Explanation of Projected Enrollment

The program only admits new students in Fall and Summer. We anticipate that approximately half of students who begin in a fall semester will complete in one year with the remaining completing in approximately 2 years. We anticipate that half the students starting in summer will likely graduate at the end of the following summer with the remaining completing in approximately 2 years (graduating at the end of the next spring semester). As with any program, there would be natural attrition of students who do not continue in the program. This is accounted for with 3 students (approximately 10%) not continuing each year after the first year due to attrition.

9. DESCRIPTION OF INSTITUTIONAL EVALUATION AND ASSESSMENT PROCESSES FOR THE CHANGE

Program objectives will be evaluated through key assessments tied to coursework. Assessment data will be gathered from a range from practical and observation assignments, course exams/assignments and a culminating action research project. Assessment data will be reviewed yearly by faculty to make improvements and changes to coursework to assure higher levels of student learning. The MS in Adapted Physical Education will be reviewed on a rotating 7-year cycle by the Quality Assurance Committee in the College of Education (Q-Com). The department will track employment through an online reporting system for students. The University of South Carolina also has program assessment in place. The University of South Carolina also has program assessment in place. The university program assessment process is a two year schedule within which colleges are to report their assessment findings and their use of assessment results to improve programs.

October 23, 2018

Dr. Joan T.A. Gabel
Executive Vice President for Academic Affairs and Provost
University of South Carolina-Columbia
102 Osborne Administration Building
Columbia, SC 29208

Dear Dr. Gabel:

Thank you for your letter of July 9, 2018, providing notification that the University will offer the Master of Science in Adapted Physical Education to align with Certified Adapted Physical Education (CAPE) standards.

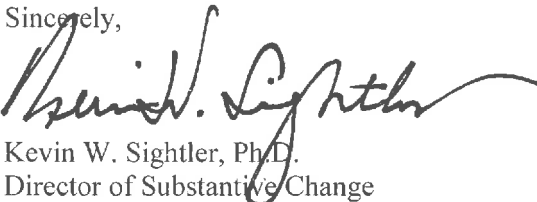

No implementation date was provided. The program was approved by the University's Board of Trustees on June 22, 2018.

The program will represent a change in name from Master of Science in Physical Education to the Master of Science in Adapted Physical Education. Credit hours will be reduced from 36 credit hours in the previous program to 30 credit hours in the new program. Six new courses will be required for the program and two new faculty members will be required.

The notification letter states that the University considers the new program to be a substantive change. Since it will require a substantial number of new courses as well as a reduction in credit hours and will require new faculty members, it is a substantive change requiring submission of a prospectus for approval.

Please provide a prospectus for approval of the program including the date of implementation. Information concerning the content of the prospectus may be found in Appendix B of the policy entitled Substantive Change for SACSCOC Accredited Institutions available on our website, www.sacscoc.org. Should you need her advice, please contact your staff representative, Dr. Linda Thomas-Glover, by telephone at 404-679-4501, ext. 4558, or by email at lthomas-glover@sacscoc.org.

Sincerely,

Kevin W. Sightler, Ph.D.
Director of Substantive Change
