

UNIVERSITY OF
South Carolina

Institute for Mind and Brain Colloquium

Meet & Greet

Friday, August 25th @ 12:00pm

To kick off the 2023-2024 colloquium season, the Institute for Mind and Brain is inviting you for a meet-and-greet on Friday August 25th, at noon, in the Walsh conference room in Barnwell (Dept. of Psychology). Lunch will be served, and Dr. Rutvik Desai, the interim director of the IMB, will give a brief overview of the mission of the IMB, and of events and opportunities offered through the IMB in the coming season!

We hope you will take this opportunity to meet fellow IMB members and affiliates. The IMB aims to bring together researchers from across the University of South Carolina, who work on human cognitive neuroscience. This includes faculty and students in the Dept. of Psychology, but certainly also in the Depts of Communication Sciences and Disorders, Exercise Science, and other Departments.

In the 2023-2024 season, the IMB is aiming to expand its offerings for doctoral students in human cognitive neuroscience, through the organization of workshops, opportunities to present in the IMB colloquium, to network and explore research collaborations with other students and faculty, etc.