About us

The University of South Carolina College of Pharmacy is built on a proud legacy of preparing future pharmacists, researchers, and leaders while advancing discoveries that improve health and well-being in South Carolina and across the globe. Grounded in community, our college fosters a supportive environment where students, faculty, and alumni thrive together.

We are located in the heart of USC's campus, one block from the student union, university library and historic Horseshoe. Whatever you're into, from outdoor recreation to art, food, music or sports, we've got you covered.

Columbia is nestled in the heart of South Carolina. Not only is it home to the state's flagship university, it's the place to find the state's government, Fortune 500 companies, a thriving arts scene and more than 800,000 residents.

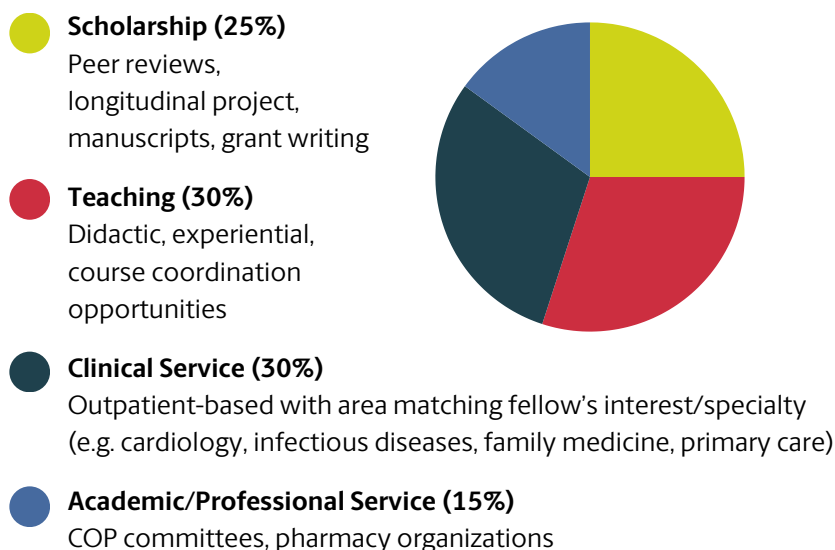

In 2019, SmartAsset ranked Columbia as the 4th most popular 'City Where Millennials are Moving.' Not only that, Columbia's been named a top college town by livability.com. South Carolina can be your home base for a wide range of outdoor experiences from the coast to the mountains and every region in-between.
